

Humorous Descriptions

1. Secrets Of a Spy

A coming of age humorous story about a grandfather passing on his legend to his grandson. Who do you become a spy? It is not a simple. It is a grueling task of a series of tests that will test the mind body and soul of this young boy. Will he be able to throw energy fields across the room? Different test administered by different legends of the spy game. Will he be able to save the life of his fellow spies? All this and more is answered as we follow him through the obstacle course of...becoming a spy. As the test comes to an end the Grandson realizes that the best teacher that he could ever hope for is that of his Granddad.

2. Blinded By Date

Lance is just a simply guy with simple wants and needs. He needs to relax a bit so that he can find the woman of his dreams. But since that can't happen for him he decides to go on one date...that turns into an audition for a reality show looking for couples. That's when Melissa, his date, tells him that she has already sent in their application for them to audition...as a couple! He fights it as much as he can as the bell continues to ring, and in the changing of different couples we get to see him go from fighting the crazy woman sitting next to him to loving the situation. It's not ideal but it just might work.

3. Sensitivity Class

Kyle is in the midst of the summer before his senior year when his mother surprises him with..."You need to work on your sensitivity." What exactly does that mean? It means that she has found him a nice summer job at the local nursing home. Inside the home he meets lots of funny characters: the man that thinks he is still in the war, the woman that keeps baking him things because she thinks that he is her grandson, the wonderful little old man who is just trying to escape, and what's a nursing home without a scary head nurse. In this midst of this crazy world Kyle learns things about himself while helping the lives of others.

4. Love, I Hate You

Mason is like any other high school boy. He has his group of friends, his school work and his first love. Unfortunately for Mason he listens to his best friend who tells him that the way to get the girl of his dreams is by showing her how much he loves her. After a series of random acts Mason finds himself standing on the edge of their high school waiting for her to come out so he can jump from the roof and float into her situation. Does Mason get the girl? Or do all of his efforts fall on deaf ears? We shall see when he makes his final leap of faith.

5. Driving: The Test

Beth is ready. She has studied, practiced, signed up and paid for her driving test. She gets up the morning of the test rested and prepared for the day. Unfortunately, her family is a mess and her mother has the chauffer drive her to the DMV. Once inside she finds out she was supposed to bring her own car and so the comedy ensues. As Beth takes her test in the family limo she is already nervous which gets even more intense when she relaxes that the entire family is in the back. Needless to say after she nails parallel parking she sadly decides to return a quick text message. Finally, back at the DMV she finds out that she failed. But as the scene comes to an end...she is up, ready to try again.

6. I Hate Men

When Beth begins writing in her diary as a way to get over her ex-boyfriend she never expected her nosey mother to read it. But when she did her mother decides that the best way for Beth to get over her ex is to move on to the next. In a series of scenes we follow Beth through the trials of online dating, blind dating and everything in between. Eventually Beth's story comes full circle when she waits for her next date and in walks her ex who is now a totally different guy...now she sees what a jerk he was from the beginning. In the end Mom was right, he is a big ole piece of poop.

7. Prom Dreaming

Kim is completely in love with Kirk. Unfortunately, Kirk has a mean girlfriend. As Kim talks with her friends for advice, she finds out that the school counselor has a pill that can make mean bullies nice. She absolutely has to have it. After her family making fun of her and her friends point her in the right direction, she finally has the moment to ask him and takes advantage of it. After asking him she realizes that he isn't the one for her, she isn't the one for him but who will she go to prom with? In this funny coming of age story Kim is just like most high school girls, she does not want to go to prom alone. And she won't...but who will end up being her date? First, she has to find the courage to ask.

8. Bullies, Gangs and the First Grade

Loc is a not the typical sixth grader. He is smarter than the rest of the kids in his grade and well on his way to first grade genius stats. Until his mother tells him that he has to attend school in a questionable part of town because they have to live with his grandmother. On the first day Loc is bullied by the resident gang member and told that he was going to have to join their gang. Loc is terrified but has no idea what to do. On one hand he can't fight at all and on the other hand he can't avoid the brawl that is destined to happen as every minute ticks by. He looks to his friends for help, but everyone seems to be relieved that they haven't been chosen. As the end of school bell nears Loc keeps watching the seconds roll by to his imminent gang initiation. Will he make it or will he call to the bullies and gangs of the first grade.

9. Hell Daycare

Steve is desperate for a lot of things. He is desperate to get out of his mother's house and all of the things that come with it: rubbing feet, applying ointment and being yelled at daily. Leaving home is easier said than done. As Steve goes from job to job getting fired time after time and hearing those same words, "Maybe this isn't the job for you" he starts to get discouraged. Until he walks into the HelllllllP Daycare. A place where the people are strange and the children are stranger. But when he starts working with the 2-4 year olds he is faced with a list of challenges: a lazy coworker, his mother that won't go away, children that are...different and an incident that turns Steve from worker to detective. The characters are fun and the story is hilarious. Steve ends the day with a job that he loves and realizes that being a teacher of sorts isn't half bad.

10. Never Too Old For Talent

It is the day of the show at the Sunny Side Of Life Is Almost Dark retirement home and everything is going according to plan. Director is just about to start the final rehearsal with the Doctor of the home decides that it is just not safe for the patients to participate in this show. Director argues that there is nothing wrong with the talents of: juggling family pictures, an elderly knife throwing act and a belly dancer. When the show is canceled the patients gather to protest and go on strike from all kinds of things that may not be good for the home including: food, showers and diapers but most importantly no more medicine. Through a series of events eventually the show is back on and with the support of the doctor that at one time was absolutely against the show. Sometimes all it takes is a little helping hand and an open heart to get people to cross over to your side.

11. Once Upon A Time At A Sleepover

Seventh grader Sara wanted nothing more on her birthday than the huge party that her parents had promised her. But when she lies to her mother the consequence is that she loses her big party and has to settle for a little sleepover. This drops her social rating substantially but her mother is bound and determined to make sure that this slumber party goes perfectly. But like all great plans things slowly begin to fall apart as her father dresses like a woman and calls it a clown, the scary ghosts stories get a little too real, the fire in the living room for smores makes Sara's little sister disappear, and a late night lock at the door puts Sara in a situation that could make or break her popularity. But as the sun rises and the girls head home Sara still manages to end the event with a smile on her face and a hug for her mom.

12. Cheer or Die

When Allison comes home and tells her mom Karen that she has so graciously volunteered her to be the president of the cheer moms booster club Karen nearly dies, literally. After talking to the angel and the devil that live on her shoulders she realizes she has to do this for her daughter. It isn't until the meeting that she realizes that the cheer moms are every piece of hell she thought they would be. From the mean mom and her sidekick to the mom that is super skinny and eats the entire time to the outgoing president that tried to direct her path all of these women are insane. When it becomes clear that the best way to gain their respect is through selling the most cookies Karen takes on the challenge. In the end she realizes that being a great mom is the most important thing in the world.

13. Revenge Body and Soul

Everyone knows that high school and the teenagers that come with it can be cruel to say the least. For Ashton his high school years were wrapped up in being on the receiving end of some pretty terrible experiences. A formerly overweight Ashton who was tormented in his youth grows up to be very attractive, like really really attractive so much so that he is nearly unrecognizable. So, what does the not hot teenager do when he grows up to be super stupid hot? REVENGE TIME!!! He plans to use this anonymity at his high school reunion to seek revenge on the students who wronged him. With all of the high school players: the best friend, the jock, the cheerleader, the teachers that never retire and Ashton's will to stick it to the people who hurt him, revenge is bound to be sweet. Hopefully his best friend from back then can help him realize that taking the high road is sometimes a difficult road to drive down but often the better road to travel. We shall see if Ashton gets his revenge.

14. Click!

No seventeen-year-old wants to spend their time away from social media and instead babysitting their two seven-year-old twin siblings, but that is exactly what Laura has been tasked to do by her mother. To make matters the absolute worst she has to do it with no cell phone and no television as she is on punishment. So, what do you do to entertain two seven-year-olds that are basically alien creatures from another planet? You make up a game filled with imagination, characters we may or may not know and you give them a remote to control this new world with. Through the creative eyes of Laura and the minds of her siblings we get to see just how far she'll go to keep them entertained with one imaginary remote, and all of the stories to tell in the world, absolutely nothing can go wrong...but of course it always does.

15. Wedding Objection

Dascha, a life coach, and Sid, a rock musician, stand on the altar, about to get married...when the Priest perfunctorily asks if anyone objects to this union. This ordinarily rhetorical question triggers a spate of objections from both the groom's and bride's sides. Sid's best friend Jeffrey, a pet shop owner, recalls the time that Dascha and Sid argued their way into adopting a nothing from his store. Dascha's sister Viv recounts the time that she, as a chef, tried to offer Dascha and Sid a private cooking class...only to wind up with a missing finger by the end. The more stories that comes out, the more the soon-to-be happily wedded couple appears to be short on both similarities, and happy memories. In fact, the only reason Dascha and Sid met in the first place was because flirting singles Jeffrey and Viv needed to get the two off their backs, so they could keep talking without interruptions. Uh-oh...could it be that the wrong couple is tying the knot today!?

16. *Searching for Middle School Confidence and Other Treasures

Middle school is not for the weak at heart, but alas Cornelius is exactly that. He is awkward, doesn't have a ton of friends and anytime he is nervous he sweats... a lot. But this morning is different, this morning his alter ego Confident Cornelius shows up in his mirror during morning affirmations. OMG! Who is this cool guy and how can Cornelius embody some of that into him so that he can ask out the girl he likes, Olivia, and she actually says "yes." A coming-of-age story that addresses what it takes to find your voice. In this case Cornelius has a little inner angel in his ear helping him through the whole way but like any good person with advice no one can see or hear him except Cornelius. School bully Bart works hard to get Olivia's affection but when they meet up at the arcade and battle each other in a game of tennis we see that eventually a man has to stand on his own two feet and fight for the woman he loves. A fun exploration on what we have all gone through and how Cornelius will come out on the other side of sixth grade a little wiser and a whole lot stronger.

17. *Nuggies

Sara is just another teenage girl waiting for her special day. When she realizes that the day has become, yes, it is time for her to get her first bra. So excited she has to share with her best friend which happens to be her Diary, a character that comes to life and has more attitude than is actually necessary but she supports her and all the good things that Sara writes about. As Sara runs downstairs to share in the joy with her family she realizes that her father is not interested, her super smart 7 year old brother is annoying as hell, but her mother is rightfully excited that it's time to go shopping for the first bra and of course her mom had to bring her grandmother (GranGran) along for the ride. With pure comedy a series of experiences happen throughout as Sarah, her mom, her grandmother, her best friend Nikki, and her Diary all make their way to the mall for the annual bra sale. Everyone splits off in different directions to go to different places her grandmother is looking for lace, Nikki is looking to spend a lot of her father's money, and Sara stays with her mother in hopes of having a great experience. While there are struggles along the way Sara walks out with more than she thought she was going to get. She now realizes how important and special the women in her life are, and especially recognizing how amazing her mother is for giving her this special today.

18. *Rich Man's Wish

Mr. Bev is a man that seemingly has everything. He is rich, popular, and everyone who is anyone knows exactly who he is and what he has. But the one thing that he has found he can't buy but is definitely the one thing that he wants most which is true love. The scene opens with a dinner party and ends with him finding a note inviting him to a secret auction. Upon arrival he realizes that the potential is there for him to purchase anything that he desires. As a man who wants to have everything, he is excited. When a golden coffee pot is up for auction, he is encouraged by a new friend to purchase it. After winning the coffee pot he goes home and wakes up the next morning not remembering anything that happened the night before, including what NOT to do with the coffee pot- drink from it. But in his memory loss he wakes and cuddled next to him is the coffee pot. He decides there can be no better coffee than that out of a golden pot and so he drinks from it, starting a chain of events that begins with the arrival of the Genie who grants him 3 wishes. And his quest for true love literally in a flash takes off. Genie introduces him to a different kind of dating game introducing him to different bachelorettes. One is a little crazy for cats, one a little crazy with kids, but like all good fairy tales, in his tasks he also grows and had some realizations figuring out that one seems just right. A story that encourages us to never give up on the possibility of love because we never know when it is going to come or how it will be introduced to us.

19. *Scary Little Secret

CarolAnn is just like all the other middle schoolers, she's into weird things, does weird things and on this particular day she is taking her best friend Suzie down to a special location for a special reason. As they approached the abandoned house on the corner Suzie is very much surprised while CarolAnn is mesmerized. They make their way into the house and their true purpose comes to life; CarolAnn has been granted one wish but she had to come to the house in order to retrieve it. After much contemplation CarolAnn has decided that what she wants more than anything else is a duplicate of herself, but she needs this alter ego to look just like her and do all the things that she does in a normal day school, homework, parents, parents, parents! She also needs to make sure that her alter ego self is able to change her little sisters' diapers and blend into her middle school life. But once the DemonAnn comes on the scene it is quickly realized that things have gotten completely out of control. Suzie takes it upon herself to try her best to get rid of DemonAnn by returning back to the abandoned house. She sweetly explains to the wish giver that all CarolAnn really wanted was someone to be her because she was experiencing being overwhelmed and just wanted some rest. This is the story about the difficulties of being a teenager and how those things can manifest themselves. It also speaks to the child like qualities that allow them to still believe they can wish and make it all go away or wish and make their dreams come true.

20. Art= Life + Laughter

Summer is a great kid, no like she is really a great kid. She's in all AP classes, never slacks when it comes to her grade and people respect her smartness. However, Summer also loves the arts. She loves to paint, play an instrument and even dance. Her dad loves her spirit, appreciates that Summer may not be great in the arts but she's having fun and she's earned some fun time in her life, but her mom does not. Mom thinks the arts are a waste of time and energy because if you're not good at something that is not attached to your future, what are you doing. As she says "everyone doesn't get a trophy." Summer hears how her mother feels and leans on her Dad for support- he gives it. "Have fun." So on this day of school she is practicing in her dance class when her teacher Mrs. P applauds her for all of the hard work she puts in...and before Summer could enjoy the moment Mrs. P calls in the class and points out Summer's hard work and how awesome it would be... a dance off... at the school assembly... later that day... WITH PARENTS INVITED! Summer falls into a dream state of all the things she does well- hearing the support of her Dad- feeling the negative words of her Mom- and of course the terrible attitude of Rachel and her minions who is the girl she is to dance off against. But like all great kids Summer finds her strength, her voice and her heart to stand in front of the school and eventually in the loving eyes of her Mom who finally understands the joy. A loving story of standing up to your parents so they can see your heart and accept that it lives outside of AP classes and a book. A story of creating art while creating balance and the strength to stand up- head up- and just DANCE!